Study on Executive Compensation in Germany published

Dr. Marc Steffen Rapp (CEFS) and his collaborator Dr. Michael Wolff (Universität Karlsruhe (TH)) conducted the thitherto largest study on compensation of executive board members in German firms.

The two researchers collected compensation data for some 330 German Prime Standard firms for years 2005 to 2007 and examined the size and design of different compensation components: fixed salary, bonus and stock-based incentives. The study summarizes their results in some 90 figures emphasizing differences between industries and index membership (DAX, MDAX, SDAX, TecDAX).

The study, which is edited by Professor Christoph Kaserer (CEFS) and Professor Hagen Lindstädt (Universität Karlsruhe (TH)), received significant media coverage (e.g. Süddeutsche Zeitung, Bild, handelsblatt.com, manager-magazin.de). New CEFS-Working Paper to be published in Public Finance Analysis (FinanzArchiv)

In a new CEFS-Working Paper Marc Steffen Rapp and his co-author Bernhard Schwetzler examine the impact of a flat withholding tax on capital income (dividends, interest, and capital gains) as will be introduced in Germany from 2009 onwards. In their theoretical model the authors show that if taxation is used as a policy tool to transfer wealth from capital market participants to non-market participants, the level of the statutory tax rate is reflected in security prices and taxation affects households portfolio decisions, which in turn may affect investment decisions by firms. The paper is accepted for publication in Public Finance Analysis (FinanzArchiv).

Paper „Stand der de facto-Konvergenz von IFRS und US-GAAP“ accepted for publication in zfbf

The paper by Nina Günther (CEFS) and Dr. Michael Dobler (LMU) examines the level of de facto-convergence of IFRSs and US-GAAP based on Form 20-F reconciliations for all EU companies that filed with the SEC in 2005. An analysis of the reconciling items reveals that de facto-differences between IFRS and US-GAAP are heterogeneous and often material in both net income and shareholder's equity. The paper will be published in the December issue of zfbf. [Paper download \[pdf\]](#)

IPO Sentiment Indicator (ISI) for Fall 2008

The IPO Sentiment Indicator (ISI) has declined against Q2/2008. It has dropped from 30.76 to 27.45 points thereby reaching its lowest level since introduction of the survey. This all-time low can be considered as a consequence of the current financial crisis.

The survey shows that the participants expect a further drop in stock levels leading to a further decline in IPO activity in Q4/2008.

The ISI is a mood barometer for the primary market developed by Deutsche Börse AG joint with Prof. Kaserer (CEFS). It consists of two components, namely the IPO Climate and the perceived underpricing, and is expressed in a point value.
