

PROJECT STUDY

SHAPE TOMORROW, TODAY

Who we are:

Join the NetZero Academy, a startup committed to advancing sustainability and driving the transition to a carbon-neutral world through worldclass education and training

What we do:

At the NetZero Academy, our mission is to empower individuals and businesses to embrace sustainable practices and achieve their decarbonization goals. We have several Project Study opportunities including marketing, sales, strategy, product management, and content development for selected courses and classes. Your involvement will be instrumental in driving our initiatives forward and making a meaningful impact in the sustainability sector.

What's in it for you:

Work closely with the founders, participate in customer meetings, and gain hands-on experience in building and scaling a business. Choose from a range of technical or business roles. Enjoy flexibility in the start date, working hours, and location (with offices in Munich and Berlin). Remote or in-person working is both welcome. Earn performance-based remuneration of up to €1,500 per team. The only requirement is high motivation and at least B2 German.

What's the project about?

The project revolves around the "Förderradar," a tool designed to help energy consultants locate subsidies more efficiently. Your key goal in the project is to validate the business model and find the product-market fit for the "Förderradar". This involves working on key hypothesis to define the target group, attract customers, scale the revenue as well as adding new features and funding programs. This project offers a hands-on experience in marketing, customer engagement, and business model validation.

Flexibility and rewards:

We understand the importance of work-life balance and offer flexible working arrangements. Choose your preferred start date, working hours, and location, with offices in Munich and Berlin.
